CAUTION CORNER!

Local anaesthetic with adrenaline could lead to arrhythmias and hypertension in patients receiving tricyclic antidepressants. Usage of not more than three cartridges with proper aspiration technique is recommended.

DOES ADVANCED PLATELET-RICH FIBRIN FAVOUR OUTCOMES OF SAGITTAL SPLIT RAMUS OSTEOTOMY?

- Z. Zhu et al. conducted a double-blind, split-mouth, randomized clinical trial in patients undergoing mandibular setback.
- Advanced platelet-rich fibrin (A-PRF) was applied to one side, and the other side served as a control.
- The difference in bone mineral density at 3 months between the treatment group and the control group was statistically significant, in favour of the treatment group.
- The study concluded that A-PRF may reduce postoperative complications such as neurosensory disturbance of the inferior alveolar nerve, pain, swelling, and drainage while enhancing bone healing in the osteotomy gap following SSRO.
